An Extract of a Letter from the Hague, dated Jan. 3.

The Representations of the Baron de Reischach, Minister from the Empress, Queen of Hungary, and those which Mr. Trevor have lately made to the States General, have had a very good Effect, these Ministers having thereby gained over so many to their Party, that there remains very few or none who would vote for a Neutrality upon the Conditions that France requires it. The Dispatches which the last Courier from M. Van Hoey, the States General's Ambassador at Paris, brought, give no Reason to believe that the Court of France expects that their High Mightinesses would enter into a Neutrality, not one Word being mention'd in them concerning one; neither has M. d'Argenson, Secretary of State to the Most Christian King, lately said any Thing about it to that Ambassador; but as we have been informed by private Letters sent from Paris to a Minister here, M. d'Argenson the other Day declared to M. Van Hoey, that since his Most Christian Majesty had, out of a particular Consideration for the Republick, suspended the Execution of the Orders that he had some Time ago sent into Flanders to Marshal Saxe, he expected, from the Justness of the Demand, and without further Remonstrances, that the States General should before the End of next January, give him full Satisfaction upon the Affair of the 3 India Ships taken by Commodore Barnet in the East Indies, and sold to the Governour of Battavia; upon Failure of which, the King had taken a firm Resolution, immediately after the Expiration of that Time, of doing himself Justice therein. This Declaration, which seems to be quite peremptory, will, as we are assur'd, determine their High Mightinesses to take serious Measures for putting themselves into a good Condition of Defence.

the most excessive and passionate Marks of Joy, by all Ranks and Degrees of People; that it was observed the Russian Minister had demanded an Audience, and presented a Memorial the very Evening of the King's Arrival, which it was believed did not give his Majesty much Satisfaction, since he was heard to say to that Minister, he hoped for Peace of both States, that those Orders were by that Time countermanded. The Marquis de Valori makes but an indifferent Figure at Court; he told the King that his Arms had made a prodigious Progress; to which the King answer'd with a Smile, it was because I did not wait for Orders.

Extract of a Letter from Fort Dummer in North America, dated Oct. 12.

Yesterday about 12 o'Clock, the Garrison at the Great Meadow was attack'd by an Army of French and Indians, who fought briskly for an Hour and a Half, but thro' the Divine Goodness were not able to take the Fort; but Mr. Nehemiah How, being about eighty Rods from the Fort when the Enemy appeared, was taken by them; and David Rugg and Robert Baker being up the River in a Canoe, in their Return were shot upon, and Rugg kill'd, but Baker made his Escape. Most of the Cattle belonging to the People were kill'd. I think it's likely the Enemy is scatter'd about in these Parts. The Men who were in the Fort at the Great Meadow, and who fought courageously, are very confident that they kill'd several of them.

Newport, Rhode Island, Oct. 18. Last Monday arrived here a French Prize Sloop called L'Achille, brought in by Capt. Thomas Randal. She was taken by Capt. Richard Langdon, of New York, at the Island of Blanco, bound for Martinico, laden with Beef, Cordage, a few Boxes of China, &c.

John Wickham, Commander of his Majesty's Ship the Lark, dated at St. John's in Newfoundland, Sept. 21, directed to his Majesty's Justices of the Peace and Commanders of Ships at Ferryland, and brought by Captain Knox, who arriv'd here Yesterday from Ferryland.

Whereas I have received certain Intelligence of the Arrival of three French Men of War in the Harbour of Carows, two of 44 Guns, and the other of 20, being part of the seven Sail from Brett, and bound to Cape Breton; that on the 11th instant they were fitting their Ships, and may be ready to sail by this Time; and as their Design may be the Destruction of the Trade and Fishery of this Island, I have dispatched this Express to acquaint you thereof, that you may lose no Time, but immediately repair with your Ships to this Place; and that you will without Loss of Time forward the Conveyance by Sea or Land, and the Charge of conveying shall be paid. Given under my Hand on board his Majesty's Ship the Lark, in St. John's, Newfoundland, this 21st Day of September, 1745.

J. Wickham.
